AUGUST CRIMINAL COURT

SEVERAL BRIDGES REPORTED AS WASHED AWAY.

About Twelve Criminal Cases to Occupy Attention of Grand Jury and Court.

The August court convened on Monday morning, President Judge S. McC. Swope and Associate Judge Geo. H. Trustle on bench. Associate Judge C. D. Smith arrived later.

The first matter was the returns of constables and the damage done by rains of last week was made apparent.

In Conowago township the bridge across Little Conowago Creek near Gitt's Mill was washed away, and the foot log across Indian Run on road leading from Swartz's school house to Westminster road was washed away.

In Hamiltonban the bridge across Muddy Run on road leading from Tract road to Gettysburg road was broken down.

In Liberty the road from Fairfield to Waynesboro pike was in bad repair owing to recent rains.

In Highland roads were generally in bad repair due to recent rains.

In Mountjoy roads were somewhat out of repair owing to recent heavy rains but will be repaired as soon as possible.

In Tyrone the Bull Valley road leading from Marks Bream's tenant house to Samuel Touper's was in bad repair.

In Germany recent rains caused some defects which will be fixed.

In Franklin the Chambersburg and Gettysburg pike from top of mountain to Craig's place was in bad repair on account of loose stones and washouts.

In Straban the Bonneauville road between Gettysburg and Mountpleasant line was in bad repair on account of heavy rains.

Five bastard children were returned, one in Straban, mother Mary C. Winand, reputed father Chester I. Pottoirff, one in Union, mother Della K. Weisensale, reputed father Curvin Baughman, in Hamiltonban two, mother of one Mary Dicks, reputed father Armer Richardson, and the other was reported as a supposed bastard, Mrs. Kate Seifert mother. Same kind of return as "supposed" comes from third ward Gettysburg, mother Florence Johnson.

The Grand Jury was next called, sworn and charged upon their duties and the law of such cases as should come before them.

Geo. L. Deardorff was appointed Foreman of the Grand Jury.

D. C. Krise of McSherrystown and A. A. Miller of York Springs were appointed tipstaves for the week. D. C. Krise later was excused and Andrew Keffer of McSherrystown, appointed in his stead.

Process was awarded for arrest of Curvin Baughman, Armer Richardson, Mrs. Kate Seifert, Florence Johnson and Chester I. Pottoirff by reason of returns about bastard children.

M'CLEARY'S SCHOOL HOUSE

THE FAMILY GIVING NAME HAVE LEFT TOWNSHIP.

Took Place of Log School—Some of the Families Attending—School Life of Early Days.

On the first page of COMPILER will be found a picture of a well known and typical school house.

The school house in many townships is the only public building of the district, representing the people's property. In it not only are the children taught but political meetings take place, spelling bees, debates, Sunday schools, church services, and they tell the educational, social, political and part of the religious life of townships.

Many of the townships have school houses which present the inquiry to the present generation, where and how did the name originate. Many of the names are unique and pleasing, Sweet Home, Good Intent, Liberty Hall, Blackberry, Grape Vine and a host of others.

While it may be true that often there is very little of the picturesque about the township public buildings, yet around them cling many memories which makes them different from all other buildings, for there is no place like the old school house, even though it looks like every other school house in the township, with perhaps no individuality in architecture.

It is one of the peculiar changes time works that while Mc Cleary's school house is located in Freedom township there is not a single soul bearing that name living in the township. Then how did it come by its name?

Seventy-five years ago when the school house was first built James Mc Cleary was a leading citizen of the township. He lived several hundred feet south of the site of the present school house along Plum Run.

Mc Cleary's school house is about as old as Freedom twp. which was created out of Liberty township in 1838. Prior to that the school house for that district was located on the Cunningham farm, a mile and a half by road from site of Mc Cleary's school. This older school house was a log one. The one which took its place in the new township became known at an early date by name of nearest citizen, Mc Cleary's.

James Mc Cleary left to survive him one son, John Mc Cleary, a married daughter, wife of Rev. David Bosserman, and an unmarried daughter. The son left a large family but they followed the advice of Greely before it was given, moved west, and today there is no one of the name of Mc Cleary in Freedom township.

The school house as originally built of brick, was remodeled about thirty years ago and refitted with entire new furniture, benches with backs in place of benches without backs, etc. Later the belfry and bell was added and quite recently the pole and flag. Today it may be said to be a school house as good or a little better than the average school.

Abraham V. Scott of this place, attended the school more than three score years ago. It was there Calvin P. Krise of Gettysburg received his first schooling. In those days the building was heated by wood fires and the boys received manual training in the wood sawyer art, as it was the rule to send out two boys as often as found necessary to saw and split the wood and bring it in.

Another duty was to carry water for the school. The nearest well was 300 yards away, at the Riley place, where Mrs. Kemper now lives, on the Stone Church road. From the same well the boys of today carry water to the school.

The district from which the school house draws pupils is the northern part of the township and extending southward as far as the Bull-frog road. It was the largest school in township for years, accommodating often as many as 70 pupils.

Among the well known families who received their education at Mc Cleary's school house are the following: Abraham Krise, Abraham Scott, Wm. Scott, Jas. Bigham, Ed. Plank, Barnabas Riley, Wm. Riley, David Bosserman, David Sheetz, Robert Linn and later Rohrbach, Schriver and other families. In some instances the heads of the families mentioned went to some school in earlier days, so that it has seen of some families three generations and an occasional fourth.

Among the teachers of those early days were Wm. Gehrlhart, Theodore Ditterline, a citizen of Gettysburg afterwards, and Stephen Smith and later James Cunningham and Miss Maria Thompson. It would be a long roll to mention all the teachers down to the present one, Miss Belle Griffith of Gettysburg, who taught there 1904-5 and has been re-elected for 1905-6.

This school house was used for many years for a union Sunday school under non-denominational control but has been discontinued for some years. Church services have been occasionally held in school house, by Rev. Van Cleave and more recently by Rev. Chas. Rinewald.

Corsets.

Straight-front corsets are going out. At least so the dressmakers have decreed, and their usually stupid and time-serving word is law. The round kind, whatever they be called, that crush all the organs into the space of one, are to be restored, to give variety to the female form and work to the profession which flourishes by making new garments while the old are still as good as new. Modern male dress is ugly and hygienic. Modern European and American female apparel substitutes an artificial idea of beauty for one which was good enough for Phidias. In place of a covering which respected the functions and needs of a healthy human animal, our women have invented a cage to decrease their vitality and make a natural life difficult and rare. Sheep rush madly about a pasture, not in search of any comprehensible ideal, but because one sheep started, and emotion increases with each sheep that joins. Likewise reasonable is the tendency of women to imitate an hour-glass in despite of nature. The straight-front corset has been perfectly satisfactory to her, and she has no idea why she is about to give it up. "Collier's" for August 26, 1905.

A Tin Church.

York county probably is the only section in the world that has a tin church. It is constructed entirely of block tin. The structure is only one story in height, of unpretentious architecture, and is 40 by 50 feet in diameter. The building cost $1,500.

St. Paul's Union Evangelical congregation worships in the tin church. When it was decided to build the cost of material was discussed. Stone, brick and lumber were figured on. It was found that these materials would necessitate an outlay beyond the means of the congregation. Then some member of the church versed in the cost of metals suggested block tin. The cost of this was calculated and was found to be within reach of the congregation's finances. The church is painted in imitation of brick.

THERE IS ONE RATIONAL WAY to treat nasal catarrh: the medicine is applied direct to the affected membrane. The remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. It restores the inflamed tissues to a healthy state without drying all the life out of them and it gives back the lost senses of taste and smell. The sufferer who is tired of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cts. Ely Brothers, 36 Warren Street, New York, will mail it.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Old Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture From backache, rheumatic pain, Any ill of kidneys or bladder, Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills. A cure endorsed by thousands. Read an old man's tribute.

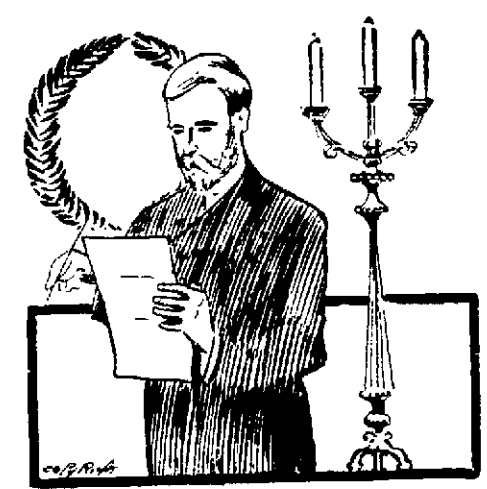

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

SIDNEY JUSTUS.

"A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box."

PUBLIC SALE

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE. ON SATURDAY, SEPT. 2, 1905, the undersigned, executor of the will of Henry J. Shriver and wife, in trust for the benefit of creditors, will sell at public outcry on the premises the real estate of said assignor, in Cumberland township, Adams county, about 1 1/2 miles south of Gettysburg, near the Hanover road, the following valuable real estate:

No. 1. A FARM lying along Rock Creek and Plum Run, and adjoining lands of Wesley Kelly, John F. Sharetts and others, containing 153 acres and 31 perches more or less. Improvements are a two story brick dwelling house, summer house, smoke house, large bank barn, 15 by 40 feet, large wagon shed with corn crib, implement shed, hog pen, smith house, sheep shed, well of water at the house and one at barn, and cistern near the kitchen door, young apple and peach orchard in good bearing condition, and other fruit of all kinds about the buildings. The farm is well limed and manured and is reputed to be among the finest grain farms in the neighborhood. The timber of 18 1/2 acres will be offered separately, consisting of white oak, hickory, etc. This will leave 9 acres of timber to go with the farm.

No. 2. A LOT OF GROUND adjoining the above, fronting on the Hanover road, containing 1/2 acre and 32 perches more or less, improved with a frame three story cottage house with 9 rooms, covered with slate, cellar and pantry, well of water at the porch, summer house with cistern, in a frame barn, wagon shed, hog pen, young apple and peach orchard and all kinds of fruit. Both properties are close to school, church, stores, mill, etc. Persons desiring to view the premises call on the undersigned residing on the lot (No. 2) Sale to commence at one o'clock p. m. when terms will be made known by JACOB C. SHRIVER, Assignee. Jas. M. Caldwell, Auct. a 9 ts

EXCURSIONS TO THE WEST

To the Pacific Coast—to California, Oregon, Washington—round-trip, long transit and return limits, liberal stop-over privileges.

The rate is practically on the basis of one fare for the round trip. Of course, if you wish to visit both California and Oregon or Washington, the cost is slightly more.

These reduced rates are in effect on certain dates in months of May to October, inclusive. They apply from all Eastern points via Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis gateways. The Rock Island System will take you up in either Chicago or St. Louis, or at hundreds of other Middle West points and carry you to the Coast in through Standard or Tourist Sleepers with unexcelled Dining Car service. The Rock Island also affords a choice of routes: on the "Scenic" route you can stop off in Colorado—see Salt Lake City—visit Yellowstone National Park; on the "Southern" route you can go via El Paso, thru New Mexico, then "up coast" to San Francisco and on to Portland or Seattle if desired.

In short, these Pacific Coast excursions offer an unusually good chance to see our western country in a comprehensive manner.

If you desire to go only as far as Colorado, there are excursion rates in effect to that section and return, all summer long, specially reduced June 30 to July 4, August 12 and 13, and August 30 to September 4. Extension trips to Ogden or Salt Lake and return at low cost also.

From September 15 to October 31, 1905, one-way tourist or "colonist" tickets will be on sale to California and the Pacific Northwest—about half regular fare.

If interested, send name and address on this coupon, designating which booklet wanted and to what point you plan to go. Name probable date of start also, so we can advise definitely with respect to rates, etc.

Send Colorado booklet and rates.

FOR WOMEN AND WOMEN ONLY

Much That Every Woman Desires to Know About Sanative, Antiseptic Cleansing and the Care of the Skin, Scalp, Hair, and Hands.

WHAT CUTICURA DOES FOR WOMEN

Too much stress cannot be placed on the great value of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills in the antiseptic cleansing of the mucous surfaces, and of the blood and circulating fluids, thus affording pure, sweet, and economical local and constitutional treatment for weakening ulcerations, inflammations, itchings, irritations, relaxations, displacements, pains, and irregularities peculiar to females. Hence the Cuticura remedies have a wonderful influence in restoring health, strength, and beauty to weary women, who have been prematurely aged and inviolated by these distressing ailments, as well as such sympathetic afflictions as anemia, chlorosis, hysteria, and nervousness.

Women from the very first have fully appreciated the purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy which have made Cuticura the standard humor remedy of the civilized world.

TORTURING HUMOR

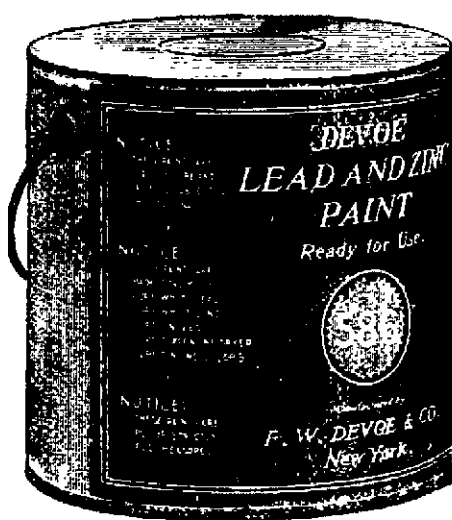

Cured by Cuticura.

"I suffered five years with a terrible itching eczema, my body and face being covered with sores. Never in my life did I experience such awful suffering, and I longed for death, which I felt was near. I had tried doctors and medicines without success, but my mother insisted that I try Cuticura. I felt better after the first application of Cuticura Ointment, and was soon entirely well. Mrs. A. Etson, Bellevue, Mich.

BATTLEFIELD SOIL SURVEY

DESCRIPTION OF SOILS, FORMATION AND SIMILAR DATA.

A Number of Remarks on Agricultural Methods and Conditions are Incorrect.

In August 1905 the Gettysburg National Park Commission requested the Secretary of Agriculture, through the Secretary of War, to make a soil survey of the Gettysburg National Park. During the summer of 1904 Henry J. Wilder and H. L. Belden of the Department of Agriculture spent several months on the battlefield making the soil survey and July of this year their report has been submitted, the most interesting parts of which follow:

Boundaries of Area.

The Gettysburg Battlefield surveyed comprises 24 square miles and extends for six miles from north to south, and four miles from east to west. Gettysburg with a population in 1900 of 1,437 lies a short distance north-east of the geographical center of the battlefield.

History and Early Agriculture.

The historical matter included in this chapter is taken chiefly from Bates' "History of Pennsylvania." The pioneer settlers of the territory embraced by the Gettysburg Battlefield were "squatters" who came from Ireland between 1755 and 1759. Meanwhile William Penn had received a grant of land which they occupied along Marsh Creek, and in 1759-40 he laid out there a reservation which he names the Manor of Masque. His surveyors met with some resistance from the Scotch-Irish squatters, who resented what they considered an intrusion, but their objections were soon overcome by Penn, who was just and generous in his settlement with them. The Germans were coming to this country at that time, and many of them settled within the Manor.

There was much jealousy on the part of these early settlers, but the clannishness and exclusiveness, which had been so characteristic of the settlements of different nationalities, largely disappeared with the necessity of banding together during the War of the Revolution, and from that time dates the beginning of their intermingling.

One of the early settlers of ability and resources was James Gettys, who had opened a farm, store and country tavern within the limits of the present borough of Gettysburg. He soon conceived the idea of laying out a town on his land, deeded land to the county for various public uses, announced his intention of making this the future county seat, and offered inducements to settlers.

There was much contention over the selection of the county seat, but the county commissioners finally decided in favor of Gettysburg.

From this time the population of Gettysburg and the surrounding country steadily increased. A few minor industries were established in Gettysburg, but the chief part of the population were engaged in agriculture.

For many years there were no roads except some paths through the forests used for the trains of pack horses by which all transportation to Baltimore and other markets was carried on. The owners of the pack horse train violently opposed the building of roads, but in the early part of the nineteenth century several turnpike, toll roads, were constructed leading from Gettysburg across the country.

Wheat, corn, oats, barley and buckwheat were the principal crops.

Small amounts of these products were hauled to Baltimore, but the chief part was consumed at home, and hogs, sheep and a few cows were sent to market. In the course of time

THE STORK BRINGS JOY

To the household but how about the mother? Has she been joyful during the weeks and months preceding the advent?

Too many mothers find it a time of fearful anxiety because of the knowledge that they are "not in good health." They have allowed weaknesses, pains and drains to accumulate till the health is completely undermined and they are "more than discouraged," and all because they have been misadvised by well-meaning friends or mal-treated by an inefficient doctor.

To all such here is the news that there is a remedy that will heal and not hurt. It was discovered forty years ago by Dr. Pierce who searched Nature's laboratory—the earth, for the remedial agents so liberally provided therein. He took Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root, Golden Seal root, and by extracting, combining and preserving, without the use of alcohol, the glyceric extracts of these natural remedies he has given to the world Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has to its credit the enviable and unparalleled record of more than a half-million of cures in the last forty years.

Only those who have given Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a trial can appreciate what a boon it is to suffering women. writes Miss Virginia Seamore, of 33 Elm St., Toronto, Ont. "For two years I suffered intensely from female weakness until life was a burden to me. I had dozens of bearing-down pains so I could scarcely stand up. Had hot flashes, was very despondent, weak and utterly wretched. My physician gave me treatments but without success. I tried several remedies but obtained no relief until I began to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I began immediately to improve, and in four months' time I was as well and strong as ever. Constipation cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

wheat became the principal money crop.

Climate.

The mean temperature from meager records from 1839-1865 is given at 50.6 degrees. The precipitation in same time is 45.90 inches. The latter is verified by more accurate later records in 1904 of 39.35 inches.

Physiography and Geology.

The soils of the Gettysburg Battlefield are closely related to its surface features, and both their origin and their sequence can be traced with remarkable definiteness to the geological formation from which they are derived.

Nearly one-half of the area is composed of triassic red shale and sandstone. These formations, once level or but gently rolling, have been dissected by streams to greater or lesser extent, depending upon the resisting power of the shale, until the surface features have become moderately rolling. The valleys are usually narrow, and where their slopes are steep the underlying ledges of shale are often exposed. These formations represent the general level of the battlefield, and the chief soil type derived from them is the Penn shale loam.

Through these red shales an extensive dyke has been intruded, cutting the entire formation from north-east to south-west. This intrusive dyke, which consists for the most part of syenitic rock, includes the main elevations of the battlefield. Big Round Top, Little Round Top, Culp's Hill, and the general ridge which connects them, and has given rise to a set of soil types—Cecil clay loam, Cecil stony loam, rough stony land, and rock out crop—distinct from those derived from the shales and sandstones.

On each side of this dyke, and lying between it and the red shale is a strip of blue shale which has an average width of approximately one-half mile. This material is slightly higher than the red shale beyond it, and in a general way may be said to occupy the extreme lower slopes of the main ridge. Such position seems sufficient evidence that this material occurs in this place because the intrusion of this dyke through the surface, and the change in color from red to blue was probably caused by the heat generated at the time of intrusion.

One-half mile south of Peach Orchard a narrow ridge leads from the main dyke and extends northerly to the main bend in Confederate Avenue. At that point it divides and extends in two parallel arms to the north boundary of the area. On their borders traces of metamorphic color-changes of the adjoining shales may be seen similar to that along the main ridge, though the chemical is seldom advanced beyond the transitional purple stage.

In the north-west corner of the sheet a low ridge, less pronounced in its contours than those already mentioned, represents a similar dyke formation which but barely broke through the surface. In this case the large quantities of stones and rocks, such as found on the other dykes, are lacking, and the soil has been mapped as Cecil clay loam.

Along the western border of the sheet, about midway from north to south, another and earlier stage of the intrusive dyke may be seen. Here, on a narrow ridge, the intrusive material failed to reach the surface, but came near enough to it so that the heat engendered thereby metamorphosed the shale into a slaty rock, the fragments of which are strewn over the surface in large amounts. The limited occurrence was deemed insufficient basis for establishing a separate type and was included in the Penn shale loam.

Soils.

The following is the name and area of each of the types of soil mapped in the battlefield survey. The basis of data gathered being from actual borings made, where possible to the depth of three feet:

Penn shale loam 7,360 acres, Gettysburg shale loam 3,200 acres, Cecil stony loam 1,216 acres, Cecil clay loam 1,088 acres, rough stony land 52 acres, rock outcrop 704 acres, Lickdale clay loam 704 acres, meadow 125 acres, Gettysburg loam 64 acres, and Penn loam 64 acres, total acres in area 15,360. The location of these soils are described at some length and the productiveness indicated, Gettysburg loam and Penn loam being the washings from their respective shale loams are the most productive farm lands and following them the shale loams from which they are derived.

Agricultural Methods.

The agricultural methods in use upon the battlefield vary greatly, as is natural, perhaps, from the surrounding conditions. Considerable tracts have been bought for speculative purposes in hopes that the National Government will buy them for park purposes. In such cases the farms are rented to tenants who understand that the owner expects to make no permanent improvements, and consequently the farms are managed so as to yield the greatest income during the present year, regardless of the future. The burden of responsibility for such management lies chiefly with the owners, for under the present arrangement the tenant does as much as should be expected.

Owners who occupy their own farms, although influenced somewhat by the motives mentioned above, exercise much more care in their methods of farming than do the foregoing, and generally surpass too, in that respect, the tenants who rent from individual owners.

The methods of cultivation are fairly efficient. The majority of farmers fit their land well for planting, and give suitable care to the growing crops, though occasional cornfields are allowed to grow up in weeds.

Farmers usually possess a sufficient supply of implements and machinery for the thorough working of land, and the harvesting of crops.

Stable manure is carefully saved, as a rule, but several careless exceptions were noted. The manure is hauled to the fields twice a year, being used in the fall for wheat and in the spring for corn.

Large quantities of low grade commercial fertilizers are bought at a rate of from $11 to $16 per ton, and a few farmers use a $20 grade. The fertilizer is used for wheat and corn at the rate of 200 pounds per acre for the former, and 100 pounds per acre for the latter, usually in addition to stable manure. A dressing of 100 pounds per acre is also used for oats.

Systems of crop rotation are in general use. The most common sequence is corn, oats, wheat and grass. This rotation is varied somewhat by omitting oats altogether and growing wheat two years in succession, or by substituting rye for the second crop of wheat.

The general plan is to cut hay either one or two years, but fields are occasionally left in grass for several years, and then pastured for a year or more.

Agricultural Conditions.

The general prosperity of the farming class of this area follows very closely the agricultural methods in use, as described in the preceding chapter. The farmers who occupy and till their own farms are generally prosperous. The steady class of renters who occupy the same farm year after year make a good living as the saying is, and occasionally save a little money. Some men who begin as renters are able after a few years to buy farms. Those farmers who plan for but one year at a time, however, are seldom prosperous, and often find it difficult to make "both ends meet." The percentage of this class, moreover, is unfortunately high.

About 70 per cent of the farms are rented. Farms owned by the Government are rented for a stated cash sum, but others are usually rented on shares. Under the share system the tenant generally furnishes the stock, tools and either one-half or one-third of the commercial fertilizer and seed, and receives one-half of all crops, but in special cases there is more or less deviation from this system. Farms range in size from 30 to 300 acres, but the average size is about 125 acres.

Competent laboring men are scarce, but wages are generally low. During the harvest season good laborers are paid $1.25 per day and board, but at other times from 75 cents to $1.00 a day. Farm hands hire for 8 or 9 months of the year receive from $10 to $16 a month.

The character of the principal products of the area shows little variation from year to year. Wheat has been the chief money crop for many years, and small amounts of oats are sold. Many farmers sell hay, and with a few it is the chief source of income. It is a common custom to buy of drovers in the fall a few steers to fatten during the winter. A few hogs are sold each year, and occasional small flocks of sheep are kept.

The dairy industry is very poorly developed. Homemade butter is sold to hucksters or local merchants at prices varying from 12 cents to 20 cents a pound; or milk is hauled to the skimming station at Gettysburg, and the cream is shipped from there to the proprietary creamery at Hanover.

Little attention is paid to the adaptation of soils to crops. All soils which can be tilled to advantage are used for the system of general farming which obtains in this section.

Transportation facilities are good. The Western Maryland and the Gettysburg and Harrisburg railways furnish connection with Baltimore, Philadelphia and Harrisburg, and make the markets of these cities accessible to the area.

The Pacific Coast.

Do you want to live where the climate is mild the year round, where the resources are more varied than in any other equal area in the world, where, with a minimum of labor you can grow profitable crops, where business is good and capital finds profitable investment? Both health and opportunity await you on the Pacific Coast.

Monster Frog.

After managing to elude frog hunters the last ten years, the monster frog, christened "Pete" by Reading anglers, was recently caught at Peter's Dam in Oley, Berks County. Old "Pete" weighed five and a half pounds and was nine inches across the back and nineteen inches in length. There was not a single green spot on his body, the frog being a grayish black. Between the eyes was a small horn. His croak could be heard for squares and it is said that he traveled from one dam to another.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

As previously said the only fair way within a party is for every candidate to let it be known that he is in the field by an announcement. Many counties provide that every candidate shall be registered a certain time before the convention and a fee for registration provided for publication in the party papers. An announcement in the Compiler is equal to registration. Remember however that to be fair the announcement must be weeks before a convention, to prevent last hour candidates and combinations which injure the party. If there are candidates for any office who have not yet announced let it be done not later than Sept. 6, and then by general consent for the good of the party let there be no later announcements. Let all who have then entered the race go to work in full knowledge of each others candidacy. The ticket so nominated must have full support from all the candidates and their friends.

VIVA VOCE CONVENTION.

The Democratic County Convention can not be far distant now. Events are shaping themselves in districts toward the selection of delegates to the convention. The Compiler advises and advocates most strenuously that the convention to be held shall select a ticket by the viva voce method of balloting. That is every delegate shall name his choice by word of mouth. To accomplish this a motion must be carried before the balloting that this method be followed.

The Compiler advocates this change early before delegates are elected so that it may be known that such a motion may be presented to the convention and if adopted every delegate may know in good time what is before him.

The viva voce method is the one followed in Democratic State and National conventions, why not in county? It is the method in many counties, among others York, why not here? The method is able to accomplish incalculable good for the party. Under the present method a delegate can promise to support every candidate in convention. The candidates horde up promises and when they find they have been deceived they are sore and the party suffers. If delegates understood they must speak out their choice they will not make promises they do not intend to keep. It will be better for the party and lesson any chance of complaint from defeated ones.

Viva voce balloting will prevent districts from being misrepresented. When delegates are practically instructed for a candidate, the district has the right to know whether the delegates have been true to instructions and this method furnishes the proof.

More than all else it will diminish the chance for hoodlums to ply its unlawful trade and every Democrat must wish to make his party free of an element that is ruinous to it and to his country. A delegate who will sell his vote will not be found out. When he has to stand up and say how he votes he will be slow to put the dollar mark on himself.

There have been conventions with illegal ballots because there were more votes than delegates. This makes trouble for the party. Such a result is impossible in viva voce voting.

The party is bound to be benefited in many more ways than those mentioned and reap only good from the change. The Compiler urges every candidate to advocate a viva voce ballot in the next convention. It is the fair, open and above board method. Try it and see the good it will do the Democratic party.

OUR FARMS BELITTLED.

On the third page is a report of soil survey of the Gettysburg battlefield made by two employees of the Agricultural Department at Washington.

This soil survey was requested by the Battlefield Commissioners. No suggestion is made in request for comment on agricultural methods and conditions. It was included, apparently irrelevant, and we would be pleased to learn from the commissioners here and make it public that this agricultural comment was without their knowledge and consent and that they were not responsible in any way for it. The employees, a certain Henry J. Wilder and H. L. Belden, not only go out of their way to criticize agricultural methods, but have made untrue statements. There seems to be an almost apparent effort to belittle the farm methods and conditions on the battlefield, an area extending three miles on either side of Gettysburg.

Attention is not called to the many fine farms, the equal of any to be found anywhere but faults are specially noted, an occasional cornfield with weeds, several careless exceptions, in the saving of manure, large quantities of low grade fertilizers used, with inference that no farmer uses over $20 grade, methods are only fairly efficient. Renters plant but for one year to make all they can and find it difficult to make both ends meet and percentage of this class is high. Many farmers sell hay and with a few it is the chief source of income. They fatten a few steers and sell a few hogs. The dairy industry is very poorly developed and little attention is paid to the adaptation of soils to crops.

A cloud of witnesses will say the above representations are false. On the contrary they will prove that methods and conditions are far advanced to what they were five or ten years ago. New methods have been introduced and where successful have been widely adopted. The farms around Gettysburg are in a higher state of efficiency than at any time in their history. Buildings are uniformly good, barns large and well cared for, homes and surroundings excellent and often beautifully kept. The land has been maintained in a high state of cultivation. If cornfields have weeds it is in seasons when ground is too wet to work. Manure is valued, saved and used. Phosphate dealers say that two-thirds of the sales of phosphate are of the kinds selling from $20 to $24 and that tons upon tons of the very best grade at $28 and $30 are used.

The landlord farmers will tell you that the tenant farmers are as efficient as in any section of the county and that there are tenant farmers who can not be excelled in making both ends meet and making good money for themselves and their landlords without robbing the land in any way. It will be difficult to find a farm robbed of its hay crop, more than enough hay being kept and only a surplus sold. The cattle dealers will say that Gettysburg is as good a market as any region in county or in counties adjoining for cattle to be fed over winter. Hundreds of dollars of pork is shipped every week in season. The dairy business is the reverse from poorly developed. The dairy routes to this town are all within the battlefield area. They have been increasing in number each year. The demand for milk is exceptional to supply town and great traveling public here. The business is more largely developed here than to be found in any other town of its size.

There are farmers within the battlefield area who were in the service of their country, others who lived on their farms when the battle raged, who lost all their crops in ground that year, who shared with hospitals and their neighbors their scanty supplies and whose losses have never been repaid. Some of these farmers and their children are among those belittled and misrepresented by Henry J. Wilder and H. L. Belden.

The most charitable view to take of their report is that they did not know what they were talking about. It is either that or that they deliberately and with malice aforethought wrote a government report to belittle farms around Gettysburg in order to make it appear that the farms Uncle Sam may want to buy were cheap affairs.

Great Grangers' Picnic.

The 22nd Annual Great Grangers' Picnic Exhibition will be held at Williams' Grove, August 28 to September 2, 1905. This is undoubtedly the largest and finest display of farm machinery held in the east. The beauty of the exhibit is that so much of it is running. Saw Mills, Shingle Mills, Threshing Machinery, Traction Engines and Ensilage Cutters galore are all shown in operation. A splendid stock exhibit is promised. The auditorium will be attractive as usual. During the day addresses by leading Grangers and Agriculturists. Thursday and Friday evenings musical and literary entertainments by the best of Chautauque talent. Major R. H. Henderson and Son the most wonderful drummers and fiddlers in the world. Everything first class. Tickets good from August 23rd to September 6th, at low rates on all railroads. Consult your nearest ticket agent.

Sales of Real Estate.

Geo. B. March, Harry J. March and Charles March executors of Jacob March, dec'd sold the farm of 163 acres situated in Tyrone township to Charles Rickrode for $22 an acre.

Julia A. Staley, executrix of James J. Staley sold the real estate of decedent in Butler township of 130 acres at public sale to John M. Huff of same township for $10 an acre. Five acres of timberland in Menallen township brought $19 an acre.

The figures became transposed in a recent issue in noting the sale of 46 acres in Union township by S. H. Willet, administrator of Wm. Willet, dec'd to D. H. Barr. Instead of $381.25 it should have been $381.25.

Adam Kimmel has purchased a tract of land in Reading township of Peter Markle on private terms.

Mrs. Maria Myers of Hanover last week sold her 64 acre farm near New Chester to her son Harry Myers of New Oxford on private terms.

Mrs. Susan Hartman of East Berlin sold her property to Monroe Boyer of near Hampton for $1300.

Mrs. Sallie Sterner of near Hampton has purchased three acres of land of Samuel Meekley of Blooming Grove, York Co. for $1500.

Wm. A. Himes of New Oxford and several Hanover people have gone into an extensive real estate deal in Hanover, purchasing 16 acres from Ruth estate on private terms.

On last Saturday H. L. Bream Executor of Geo. W. Lauver, deceased sold 46 acres in Franklin township to Wm. R. Lauver for $625.

Horse and Bull Fall Over Each Other

Lincoln Trostle of Mountpleasant township was driving by farm of H. W. Smith in Oxford township last week and Mr. Smith's cattle were crossing the road. A large bull ran in front of the horse. The bull was knocked down and horse fell over him. The horse regained his feet first and buggy struck the bull as latter was getting up and vehicle was overturned throwing Mr. Trostle to ground. He was slightly injured and but little damage was done to vehicle and animals.

L. T. L. Alumni Meeting.

The Alumni of the Walter Loyal Temperance Legion held an interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. J. J. Peters, Guernsey Saturday evening Aug. 19th.

After the usual opening exercises and necessary business the committee to arrange program for the evening, distributed the following subjects for discussion, which interested visitors as well as members.

What reform or improvement does our locality need most?

What connection is there between "yellow journalism" and crime?

What effect does tobacco have on character?

Are reforms aided by agitation or retarded as suggested by Bishop Chandler?

What relation is there between poor house keeping and intemperance?

Should home amusements be encouraged by the parents to keep their boys at home?

Tell about wine drinking in Continental Europe?

After a game of "Traveling Alphabet" the members dispersed to meet at the home of Alice and Susie Black in September.

An Ugly Fall.

Chiffard C. Bream was helping to unload phosphate last week and in reaching out to throw a bag further in shed, the bag fell outward to ground dragging Mr. Bream with it. The fall was about twelve feet. Mr. Bream's right ankle was sprained.

Divorce Asked For.

The Court last week awarded a subpoena in divorce on petition of Elizabeth Jones vs. Oscar Jones, on the alleged ground of cruel and intolerable treatment.

Ayer's

Why is it that Ayer's Hair Vigor does so many remarkable things? Because it is a hair food. It feeds the hair, puts new life into it. The hair cannot keep from growing. And gradually all the dark, rich color of early life comes back to gray hair.

When I first used Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was about all gray. But now it is a nice rich black, and as thick as I could wish.

A number of citizens of Littlestown are building concrete sidewalks on South Queen Street in that borough. The concrete pavements are taking the place of walks that were poor and are a decided improvement both to the properties and the town. Many new brick pavements have been put down on the same street and other parts of the town and the borough will be able to pride itself on its pavements. South Queen street has been paved for a distance, as well as Gettysburg street. The appearance of things in Littlestown is that of a progressive community. Wagon after wagon will be met these days entering the town from every road emptying their loads of corn at the graining plant, and the big silk mill looking like the biggest thing in the town is a busy place. Altogether Littlestown has hustling up-to-date airs these days.

The insurance of J. H. Eisenhart and Bros. on the contents of the John's Mill, destroyed by fire recently has been adjusted at $2,900 and that amount has been paid to them.

Bessie the seven year old daughter of Charles Duttera of McSherrytown was rolling a hoop in the street in that town on last Tuesday and owing to defective sight did not see an approaching team, was knocked down by team and slightly bruised about the head.

C. S. Wolf of East Berlin has a Revolutionary relic in the shape of a powder horn. It is decorated with pictures of a church, a house and a flintlock musket and the sentence "Liberty and property for America, M. Bedinger." The relic was given to Mr. Wolf when he was a boy by John Stormbaugh then living in East Berlin.

W. E. Jacobs of Littlestown, shot a blue heron while fishing in Bermudian creek which measured 4 feet 9 inches in height and six feet at full stretch of wings.

Jeremiah Weaver of Midway gathered last week several quarts of second crop raspberries from bushes in his garden and the berries were very large and luscious.

Three Abbotstown ladies cut down an old pear tree in their garden last week. One climbed the tree and attached a rope and the others hacked away, and it is said the tree was felled as quickly and as well as a man could have done and made into kindling wood besides.

A WARNING TO MOTHERS.—Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by J. H. Huber.

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought. A TEAM owned and driven by Edward Richter, of Berwick township, ran away at midnight recently throwing occupants out and wrecking vehicle. The horse ran into Hanover before caught. Nobody was hurt.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN 24 HOURS.—T. J. Blackmore, of Half & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of Myclic Cure. It got me out of the house in 24 hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the Myclic Cure is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the Myclic Cure to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by Peoples Drug Stores.

A HARRISBURG party has been buying up a car load of apples in northern part of county, paying 40 cents a bushel.

ELIZABETH, scald head, bites, itchiness of the skin of any sort instantly relieved, permanently cured. Doan's Ointment. At any drug store.

New physicians have been adopted by the Littlestown School Board.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM CURED IN 3 DAYS.—Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint; her suffering was terrible and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians, but to no avail. I bought and used the Myclic Cure for Rheumatism. I gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I cannot say enough for it." Sold by Peoples Drug Stores.

NIAGARA FALLS EXCURSIONS

Low-rate Vacation Trips Via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has selected the following dates for its popular ten-day excursions to Niagara Falls from Washington and Baltimore: Sept. 8 and 22, and Oct. 13. On these dates the special train will leave Washington at 7:55 a. m., Baltimore 9:00 a. m., York 10:40 a. m., Harrisburg 11:40 a. m., Millersburg 12:20 p. m., Sunbury 12:58 p. m., Williamsport 2:30 p. m., Lock Haven 3:08 p. m., Renova 3:55 p. m., Emporium Junction 5:05 p. m., arriving Niagara Falls at 9:55 p. m.

Excursion tickets, good for return passage on any regular train, exclusive of any limited express trains, within ten days, will be sold at $10.00 from Washington and Baltimore; $8.00 from York; $10.00 from Littlestown; $10.00 from Oxford, Pa.; $9.00 from Columbia; $8.50 from Harrisburg; $10.00 from Winchester, Va.; $7.50 from Albion; $7.40 from Tyrone; $6.40 from Bellefonte; $10.00 from Ridgeway; $7.50 from Sunbury and Wilkes-Barre; $5.75 from Williamsport; and at proportionate rates from principal points. A stop-over will be allowed at Buffalo within limit of ticket returning.

The special trains of Pullman parlor cars and day coaches will be run with each excursion running through to Niagara Falls. An extra charge will be made for parlor-car seats.

An experienced tourist agent and chaperon will accompany each excursion.

For descriptive pamphlet, time of connecting trains, and further information apply to nearest ticket agent, or address Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Station, Philadelphia.

Do It Today.—The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it to-day." That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it to-day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over 35 years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.

WHEN you ask your druggist for Bromo-Pepsin, be sure you get it. Note the word Pepsin. All druggists, 10c, 25c, and 50c, per bottle. A LITTLE forethought may save you no end of trouble. Anyone who makes it a rule to keep Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand knows this to be a fact. For sale by J. H. Huber.

The Eagle Metallic Company near Fountaineau is installing new machinery at their mine and will resume operations on a large scale.

PETULAR DISAPPEARANCE. J. D. Runyan, of Butlerville, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy for dizziness, sour stomach, headache, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at all drug stores, price 25c.

THE Hanover Hat Company propose to open branch in McSherrytown and have advertised in latter place for 100 girls.

BROOK Blood Bitters gives a man a clear head, an active brain, a strong vigorous body—makes him fit for the battle of life.

Lightning struck the rods on barn of Peter Spangler of Huntington township, tore them loose from building, without further damage to barn.

No such thing as "summer complaint" where Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is kept handy. Nature's remedy for every looseness of the bowels.

DAVID H. Guise of Liberty township lost a horse last week by having a leg so badly broken by kick of another horse that it had to be killed.

THE PUBLIC IS AROUSED. The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 36 St. Clair Ave., Columbia, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak, from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at all drug stores; price 50c.

A STONE rolled off wagon driven by son of Daniel Winand of Utah recently, striking a foot of one of the horses and cutting it so badly that for awhile it was feared animal would bleed to death.

THERE are many so-called dyspepsia cures, but Bromo-Pepsin holds the record as the cure for indigestion, headache, insomnia, and mental exhaustion. Bromo-Pepsin is absolutely harmless. All druggists, 10c, 25c, and 50c, per bottle.

Mrs. Wm. Tzuan, of Fairfield, claims the champion pumpkin of that town being 4 feet in circumference and still growing.

Prevents Dangerous Diseases. Grand Rapids, Mich. "I was troubled with biliousness and liver complaint, and had to take physic all the time, until I was tired of it. I began taking Baxter's Maudrake Bitters and have found all I need in your medicine. I can recommend Baxter's Maudrake Bitters very highly for the general cleansing of the system, which prevents more dangerous diseases developing."

Mrs. A. H. Sheppard. Baxter's Maudrake Bitters purifies the blood, tones up the system, eradicates all poison, and keeps the body healthy and free from foul impurities. Sold every where in liquid or tablet at 25 cents.

L. M. Buchler. ROBERT SANDERS, of near Fairfield, has what is considered the finest cantaloupe patch in the county, from which he expects 7,000 cantaloupes. $100 Reward.—The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation. DANIEL BAIR has purchased the Frownteller farm, near Littlestown, for $19 per acre.

A COLONIAL WOOLING.

HOW MR. JUSTICE SEWALL COURT-
ED THE WIDOW WINTHROP.

Stately, Sedate and Extremely Cautious
on Both Sides Was This Love-making Affair in Massachusetts in the Seventeenth Century.

As the seventeenth century began to wane into the eighteenth colonial life
in America does not grow less curious or interesting in what now seem its extremes of eccentricity, but they begin to grow milder in their manifestation.
In Virginia in the eighteenth century
it is no longer possible for a layman who has spoken disrespectfully of the minister of his parish to be sentenced to construct a pair of stocks at his own expense and sit in them during the time of service by way of penance.
When this happened to Henry Charlton
to enforce in him a more decent respect for Rev. Mr. Cotton of Hungr's parish, Va., it was in the first half of the seventeenth century. In the second half of the century, and more especially in the last quarter, this spirit of clerical severity against sin and sinners had reached its climax in the witch mania in New England. In the reaction which followed Justice Samuel Sewall, who had sat on the bench
at the Massachusetts witch trials, was at last so overcome by his conscience
that on Jan. 14, 1697, "it being a fast
day," he attended the meeting house and stood up publicly to hear read the paper in which he confessed himself
"senseless of the guilt contracted" by his participation on the bench in the hanging of witches.

This caused a conscience whose tenderness (extraordinary in a seventeenth century lawyer) is perhaps due to his education for the church. He studied at Harvard and after graduating there began the career in the ministry which lasted until not long after he had married a wealthy heiress, the daughter of the "milit master" of Massachusetts. After the event he depended no more on the church, but devoted himself to the law, rising to its highest dignities and yet retaining throughout his lifetime until the ripe
age at which he courted the widow Winthrop his fondness for religious meditation, the reading of the Scriptures and good Canany, which make his own account of his courtship of the widow the greatest treasure of the Massachusetts Historical society's library.

His "Son Sewall" being grown to man's estate and settled in the ministry and his "Daughter Sewall" being mature in age, Justice Sewall found them both willing enough that he should pay his court to the widow Winthrop. He being at that time of a portly figure and an agreeable,
rounded countenance, with a double chin, as his portraits show, met Madam Winthrop at the house of his "Son Sewall" and told her he was "glad to see her," as he had not seen her in some time. He then gave her a copy of Mr. Home's sermons, but said nothing of matrimony on that occasion.
Through the good offices of his "Daughter Sewall" he then informed Madam Winthrop that if she would be "pleased to be within" he would wait on her shortly. She answered that she would expect him. On the "following Saturday," after having dined, he waited on her and "spoke to her, saying: 'My loving wife died so soon and suddenly
'twas hardly convenient for me to think of marrying again. However, I have come to the resolution that I will not make my court to any other person without first consulting you.'" After this he had a very pleasant discourse with her, but as there were about seven other persons sitting in the room he made not much progress on that day.

On Oct. 3, when he waited on her again, he was received by "her Daughter Noyes," to whom he said he hoped his suit to her mother was not disagreeable to her. She answered she would not be against what might aid to her mother's comfort. When Madam Winthrop came into the room where sat
Chaplain Ains, who had hung up his hat
"as if he belonged to the house," the justice asked her to favor him with a private consultation. Thereupon, when she spoke of going into another room, Chaplain Ains presently left with the others. Then, the two being alone, he prayed that she "might be the person assigned to him." She instantly
"took it up by way of denial, as if she had caught at an opportunity to do it." She made some further discourse about unwillingness to leave her children, by which, being discouraged at that time from warmly urging her,
the justice gave her a copy of Will-iam's "Fountain," with the little print and verses, saying he hoped she would read it. She took the book and put it in her pocket. Thereupon the justice took leave.

On his next meeting with the widow she treated him with a great deal of courtesy and also with wine and marmalade. She told him that Dr. Increase Mather visited her that day in Mr. Hutchinson's coach. He gave her a copy of the News Letter with verses in it and took leave. This was the day after Dr. Cotton Mather's
"chimney fell affire so as to interrupt
the assembly a. m."

He then "writ a few lines to Madam Winthrop" and sent her Mr. Mayhew's sermons and an account of the Indians of Marthas Vineyard, "thanking her for the unmerited favors" of the wine
and marmalade, and asking permission to wait on her again. This note he sent by Deacon Green, who delivered it to Sarah Chickering, the madam's maid, the madam herself not being at home.

At their next meeting he found her
"dark and lowering, much changed from what she was before." When at last he got his chair into position

close to hers, he asked her leave to draw off her glove, and she being desirous to know the reason, he told her there was much difference between handling a dead goat and a living lady. He "got off the glove" and asked her to "remove the negative" she had laid upon him. She said she would not, and "enlarged upon it," as she could not leave her house, children, neighbors, etc. Thereupon he "gave her 'Dr. Preston on the Church Marriage and Church Carriage,'" which cost him "sixpence at the sale." She thanked him for Mayhew's sermons.
When she talked of Canany wine, he told her that her kisses were better to him than the best Canany. But he made no further progress that night.

The next time he saw her she treated him courteously, but he noticed, with pain, that "she was not in clean linen, as sometimes." She said she did not know whether he could come again or not. On the next visit she was courteous, but took occasion to speak
"pretty earnestly" on the question of whether he would keep a coach. He said it would cost at least £100 per annum, while she thought it would not cost more than £40. This night she "spoke much against John Winthrop, because of his false heartedness." Then,
Mr. Eyre coming in, Justice Sewall gave him Dr. Increase Mather's sermons, and came away somewhat late.

The next occasion Madam Winthrop took the candle and closed the shutters, sat down on the couch and spoke something of his need of a wig. This was not to his liking. After some conversation not to the point he asked her
if she would be in tomorrow night,
and took leave. On the evening of Oct. 27, having made up his mind on the subject of the coach, he told her he could not afford to keep it, and that, as for wearing a periwig, his "best and greatest friend" had supplied him with hair before he was born. She commended Dr. Preston's sermon on the church marriage and quoted him, saying it was "inconvenient keeping out of a fashion commonly used." Thereafter she gave him a dram of black cherry brandy and also the lump of sugar that was in it. He prayed God to keep her and came away.

On Nov. 2, midweek, she inquired concerning his estate, as she had heard
he had given it all to his children, which he denied. She gave him "a glass or two of Canany," but not her hand to hold.

On Nov. 2, being pressed, she said
she could not change her condition
and quoted the Apostle Paul, affirming that single life was better than married. After he had argued to the contrary, as if Paul applied his words only to the then "present distress," she said she had not pleasure in such things as formerly. Though he answered that she was the fitter on this account
to be his wife and urged her somewhat,
he still made no progress and about 10 o'clock came away, saying he "would not further disturb the good order of her house."

On Monday, Nov. 7, he read certain of the Psalms and then called upon Madam Winthrop, giving her some figured almonds. After their conversation, in which she deferred her favorable answer, she gave him a glass of wine. He said that since he made the more haste with the less speed he would go home, which soon after he did. He did not on this occasion bid her draw off her glove, as sometimes
he had done. "I noticed," he adds,
"that her dress was not so clean as sometimes it had been. Jehovah jire!"

On the 1st and 11th of November he enters in his journal, from which all this is faithfully extracted, that he went not to Madam Winthrop's. About the middle of December he records that she "made a treat," inviting others, while he "knew nothing of it, but the same day abode in the council chamber and dined alone upon Kelly's pies and good beer." So he was sojourned to the end of his natural life, during which it does not appear that he lost flesh
from disappointment in love.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

London's Chimney Sweeps.

On May 1 all the chimney sweeps in London were for years treated to a great feast by the Montagu family of Portman square. The custom originated with Lady Mary Wortley Montagu about the year 1722. This famous English authoress had a son—Edward Wortley Montagu—who is known in history for eccentric life. Having been sent to Westminster school, he ran away three times. On one of these flights he changed clothes with a little chimney sweep and spent a long time with the sweeps as one of their profession. His parents hunted for him all over the country. At last his hiding place was discovered, and he was restored to them. This happened on May 1, and in commemoration of the happy day Lady Montagu every year
afterward until her death gave a feast to the sweeps of London. The Montagus continued this custom through all the following generations, and now
May 1 has become a general holiday
for sweeps.

Coins and the Cross.

The symbol of the cross was associated with the earliest coins in Christendom, and today the cross is one of the coins of Spain. A cross was cut on Anglo-Saxon and Norman money that it might be readily broken into halves and quarters for giving change, and when cut coins were abolished money continued to be marked on one side with the cross, like our modern coin. In this way it became common in the sixteenth century to say, "He hasn't a cross," as we say,
"He hasn't a penny." Shakespeare frequently uses it in this sense, and Massinger played on the double meaning of the word: "The devil sleeps in my pocket. I have no cross to drive him from it." London Express.

A Woman Bandit

(Original.)

In the Sierra de Guadarama mountains, in Spain, once a company of bandits was a terror to the country below. They were accompanied by a number of women, one of whom was as terrible as any of them. She was Suzanne, a girl of twenty, very beautiful and one of the bravest and most pitiless of the band. The Spanish troops hunted them down at last and killed nearly all of them. Suzanne, disdaining flight, continued to load and fire, expecting every moment to be shot down. She was overpowered and would have been executed had it not been for the admiration of the officer commanding the troops, Captain Miguel Mendoza. He spared her life and took her to Madrid, where she was lodged in jail.

Captain Mendoza visited the girl in prison and endeavored to lead her from her evil ways, telling her that one so brave and so beautiful should look higher than the profession of a robber.
She listened to him, now looking at him with her fiery eyes, then down in evident penitence as he pictured the wickedness of her life.

Captain Mendoza soon came to believe that he had rescued one who had known nothing but a bandit's life, but in whose breast beat a naturally loving heart. He had no power to liberate Suzanne and despaired of enlisting sympathy for her on the part of the authorities, by whom she had meanwhile been tried and condemned to death. The night before she was to have been executed he assisted her to escape, and together they went to the Toledo mountains, south of Madrid.
His intentions were to leave the girl in hiding there and when she had been forgotten help her to lead an honest
life under an assumed identity.

He was doomed to a bitter disappointment. On reaching the mountains Suzanne met two members of the band to which she had belonged. Pointing to her benefactor, she said:

"Put that fool out of the way."
In Mendoza there flashed a sudden tempest, and, drawing his sword, the only weapon he possessed, he drove the three into a ravine, where he lost them, for he could not follow on account of the wounds they had given him. He was found by a peasant and carried down the mountain.

When Mendoza returned to Madrid
it was not known that he had assisted Suzanne to escape. He asked and received permission to take troops to the Toledo range and clear it of bandits.
Once there he soon got on Suzanne's track. She had gathered about her a band, at whose head she had placed herself, and made them a scourge.
Mendoza met them and drove them to a defile where they ensconced themselves behind a rocky barricade, but the soldiers got behind them and picked off all, except Suzanne, whom Mendoza had ordered should not be harmed. Mounting the rampart of rocks, she kept on firing, doubtless expecting
to be shot, but no bullet touched her.
The soldiers closed in on her. Then she saw the man she had duped coming to take her. Raising her gun, she fired at him, but at the moment a soldier jumped down behind her, knocked
the weapon upward and disarmed her.

Suzanne, held by two soldiers, met the gaze of the man whose love, kindness, sacrifices, she had sought to return by death. It was a duel of one human soul against another, weapons of good against those of evil. For a time it seemed as if the battle would be drawn. At last the woman's glance began to weaken, trembled, and her eyes drooped. Then Mendoza, pointing,
said one word:

"Go."
The girl stood for a moment, again raising her eyes as if to learn if she was sent away to death, but there was no death in her captor's eyes. Then she understood. Turning, without a word either of thanks or reproach, she walked away and in a few minutes
was lost behind the trees.

A year passed. One night Mendoza was walking in Madrid when a carriage was suddenly driven up to the curb, two men alighted, one threw a cloak about the captain's head and both hurried him into the carriage. All night Mendoza was driven, under guard of the two men, and toward morning he felt that they were slowly ascending. In time the carriage stopped, the door was thrown open, and Mendoza was ordered to alight. His first glance told him that he was on a mountain side, and a moment later his eyes rested on the figure of a woman whom he knew at once to be Suzanne.

"Once more," she said, "you are in my power."

"So I see."

"Get into the coach."

Mendoza got in, thinking he would be taken to execution.

"Take the gentleman home," said
Suzanne to the coachman.

She turned away without a look or a word, and the carriage was driven down the mountain. Several men on horseback rode behind till the carriage reached the foot of the mountain, then they turned and disappeared.

There is no record of the story, but the account is so true in the two is not well authenticated that is, the sequel may go with another story. Four or five years after the events narrated a beautiful girl somewhat older than her classmates she was twenty-five—was graduated from a convent school in Madrid and the day after her graduation was married to a prominent officer
in the Spanish army.

No one knew whence the bride came or where the officer made her acquaintance. Indeed, all that was known about her was that she was much admired and beloved at the school.

APPLE CROP PURCHASED

ONE DEALER BOUGHT TWENTY THOUSAND BARRELS.

Apple Crop is Said to be not so Large but of Good Quality— Sunday School Picnic.

Fairfield, Aug. 28.—John C. Stover, the apple man, has put in appearance in this community. He has already purchased about twenty thousand barrels. He says the crop is not so large but of good quality, except where there is scab.

The new school house is nearing completion and will soon be ready for the furniture and the furnace.

There will be Harvest Home Services in the Lutheran Church on Sunday, Sept. 17.

James Kime of near town shows an apple raised in his orchard which weighs 20 1/2 ounces. It is of the Summer Queen variety, has a yellow flesh and a most delicious flavor.

The District Sunday School Convention which was to have been held in the Lutheran Church on Aug. 25 but was prevented from meeting because of the inclemency of the weather will be held on Friday, Sept. 8. There will be two sessions, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening.

The announcement in last week's items of the union Sunday School picnic of the Fairfield, Cashtown and McKnightstown congregations was a mistake as to date. It will be held Aug. 31 instead of Aug. 24 below the red bridge at Orrtanna.

Christian Frey, administrator of the estate of Henry Hull, deceased, sold the Sugar Loaf property, 21 acres and 107 perches, with improvements to Charles Toot at $450. Also the house located in Fairfield to Lewis Krise for $850.

Mr. Heller of Biglerville sold a car load of cattle at public auction at Fairfield last week.

We are glad to announce that Master Earl Hartzel, who was operated on several weeks ago for appendicitis, is improving rapidly.

A number of defeats has caused somewhat of a subsidence of the base ball fever among the boys. UNO.

Mrs. Anthony Sanders a highly respected lady is very ill at this time. Dr. Glenn is the attending physician.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CELEBRATION

Barlow, Aug. 28.—The celebration held at this place last Saturday under the auspices of the Mountjoy Union Sunday school was quite a success. The program prepared by the school was well rendered and attentively listened to by the large audience present. Rev. Minnick and Rev. Ritter of Fairfield made impressive and interesting addresses. The receipts were far greater than in former years, a net profit of $47.17.

At Mountjoy Lutheran Church yesterday a large congregation assembled for the Harvest Home service, the pastor Rev. W. G. Minnick, preaching the sermon. There was a handsome display of fruits and vegetables contributed by the members of the church. The collection was presented to the pastor.

Edward Stremmel and family, and mother and Miss Cora Trostle all of Waynesboro, Miss Myrtle Rimetollar of Altoona, Miss Louetta Sharett of Gettysburg and Jacob Haverstock and wife of Arendtsville were the guests of your correspondent on Sunday.

POTATO BUGS CAUSE DEATH

Buchanan Valley, Aug. 28.—Lawrence Warner, son of James Warner formerly of this place, but now of Blandburg, Cambria Co., Pa., died on Monday, the 20th, of blood poisoning and was buried on Wednesday at Coal Port. He had been swimming in a pool where potato bugs had been thrown and had a slight scar on his knee is the only way they can account for his illness of blood poisoning. He was a great sufferer and lived two weeks after taking sick. His age was upwards of 42 years.

Forty hours devotion will be held in St. Ignatius' church, this place, beginning on Sunday, August 27th, and closing on the following Tuesday. The large brown edible mushrooms have not been so abundant for a number her of years as the past season, as many as thirteen being found on one spot. They are abundantly used in this locality and almost every one enjoys them.

James McDermitt after a stay of a week with his mother has returned to Altoona, where he is employed.

Stanislaus Krichten, of McSherrystown, spent a few days at Edward G. Cole's recently.

A party of basket weavers encamped near Trust last Thursday night and Friday. The heavy rains made it very unpleasant for them. They seemed to submit very cheerfully to their lot.

Mrs. Albert Cole and daughter, Rosalie, spent a day in Gettysburg with her father, Hon. William Martin, on Lincoln Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Brady attended the Catholic picnic, held near Oxford, on last Saturday, Aug. 19th, stopping over night with James Devine Sr. family and returning on Saturday evening.

Slight frost was reported in some localities on Friday morning a week ago.

Ignatius Brady killed nineteen garter snakes at one spot and one at another making twenty snakes in one day in the field where he was plowing.

HARVEY KIME HAS LOCK-JAW

Arendtsville, Aug. 28.—Harvey, aged 11 years, son of Frank Kime, has lock-jaw.

Quite a number of apple buyers have been here during the past week, some of them offering $1.50 per barrel.

Edward F. Hartman's crop is estimated at about 2,500 bushels. He has sold his crop on private terms.

Otto, son of Rush Myers, is ill with typhoid fever.

Rev. D. T. Koser will hold holy communion service in the Lutheran church in this place next Sunday, Sept. 3, at 10 a. m.

Mrs. John N. Snyder and her daughter Lillie, of York, are visiting at C. S. Rice's.

Geo. Blubaugh, Jr., and wife, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, are visitors at the home of Geo. Blubaugh, Sr.

Allen B. Trostle of the firm of H. W. Trostle & Son, is off on a ten day's business trip to New York and Philadelphia, stocking up on a large line of fall and winter goods.

RESERVOIR ALMOST FINISHED

East Berlin, Aug. 28.—Your correspondent was at the engine house all day yesterday attending to the pumping of water for the town. This will likely be the last Sunday upon which pumping will have to be done. It is expected to have reservoir finished this week. It will be a good reservoir in every way and will cost between $1000 and $2,000.

A large number of visitors were in town yesterday and many of them visited the reservoir and dropped in to see the pump man.

The administrator of Mrs. Hoffhehus sold her house and lot on Main street on last Saturday at public sale for $850.

P. C. Smith has sold 140 tons of fertilizer this season. The most of this went out of town. The other agents have had their share of the business.

One day last week lightning burnt down, near Newton, or Hogtown as sometimes called, in Paradise township, York Co., the large bank barn of Edward Stombaugh. The threshers had finished working at his place and going to a neighbor were starting to thresh when they saw the flash hit the barn. They hastened back and helped to save the live stock and farm implements. Mr. Stombaugh has only a light insurance and his loss is heavy. E. L. S.

Letter to Frank M. Fox

Gettysburg, Pa.

Dear Sir: Have you found-out you can paint a job with fewer gallons Devco than of anything else, lead-and-oil or anything else?

Mr. Floyd Almy, House and Sign Painter, Greenwich, N. Y., found it out three years ago; he writes: "I have used Devco lead-and-zinc for the past three years, and cannot say too much in its favor. I am using it now on a big job that I took by contract, and it has saved me at least $25 in the cost of material."

Devco is the strongest paint we know of; goes furthest; takes less of it to do your job.

Lead-and-oil is pure; lead-and-zinc is stronger; covers more; goes further.

Have you found-out you can paint a gallon Devco in less time than a gallon of anything else? That means less time for the job. Less time; less money.

Less paint; less money for that; less time; less money for that. Devco lasts longer; do you mind the less money for that? You are sure of it.

Yours Truly

F. W. Devco & Co.
